LEGAL UPDATE

1. Repealing of Antique Laws

The National Legislative Assembly acting as Parliament under the Interim Constitution just passes the Act Repealing Certain Laws that Are Either Obsolete or Overlapping with Other Law, B.E. 2558 (2015) (the "Act"). The Act repeals 11 obsolete laws that are no longer needed. Many of those laws were enacted during a war time or a post war restoration period. At present, these laws are no longer needed and have no present day application. So the Act repeals those 11 laws on a mass scale. A typical act of parliament (law) in Thailand normally does not have any expiration date. The practice causes many acts to remain in a book long after they are no longer needed or useful.
