1. New Regulation of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Allows the Out-of-Court Examination of Witness by Video Conference

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court issues his new Regulation Re Criteria for Adduction of Evidence and Examination of Witnesses Located Out of the Court by Video Conference explicitly allowing the examination of the witnesses outside a courtroom by video conference. In certain circumstances, a witness may be able to testify without a need to go to court. The examination of witnesses by video conference has already been adopted in some courts. However, this new regulation paves the way for a wider adopt of a technology in courtrooms. The new regulation also stipulates how a computer device being admitted as evidence.
